P.O. APPOINTMENTS

ANNA FREYTAG, GRAHAM, GOLDA BIRD, QUITMAN

A. L. M'ELWAIN AT ELM

Miss Joanna Lyons at Conception and Henry Berg at the Junction—About Fourth Class Offices.

(By W. C. Van Cleve)

Washington, D. C., June 7, 1914.—The close of another week finds three more important bills removed from the House calendar and added to the Senate's burden of unfinished business. The three anti-trust bills designed to correct many of the evils permitted by the present laws, were passed by the House in substantially the same form as reported from the committees. Very little opposition developed and on the final votes, most of the republicans fell in line and voted with the democrats.

The following are the principal features embodied in the bills:

- Price discrimination prohibited.
- Railroad pools barred.
- "Discounts" or "rebates" forbidden.
- Interlocking directorates illegal.
- Guilt made personal in all cases.
- Labor unions declared legal.

Interstate Commerce Commission to supervise bond issues.

A commission to regulate corporations created.

That the senate will act promptly in considering these bills is assured. It is by no means certain that the senate will pass the house bills as they have already reported out a trade commission bill of their own, but such as finally become permanent law will embody substantially the same features as are now in the house bills passed.

The senate will reach a vote on the bill to repeal the portion of the Panama Canal tolls act providing for free tolls to American vessels engaged in the coast wise trade very soon. An amendment is said to have been finally agreed upon which will make the passage of the bill a certainty and will be satisfactory to both the proponents and the opponents of the original bill.

The Mexican mediation congress has been having a sore time of it trying to unravel the tangled skein and it has looked at times like its efforts would be fruitless. They have been so far unable to get the rebel leader, Carranza, into the conference on the same terms that Huerta came in on and with out him no settlement of the internal affairs of Mexico can be made with any hope of permanency unless the armed forces of the United States get behind it. This would likely involve trouble between the United States and the constitutionalists which is not desired.

New complications continue to arise but there appears to be ground for the hope now that Carranza will come in and that success will finally crown their efforts. It was a tremendous undertaking to begin with and will be a great diplomatic victory if it succeeds.

The department has announced its intention to make the following post office appointments under the civil service examinations held some time ago. Miss Goldie Bird at Quitman, Miss Joanna Lyons at Conception, Henry Berg at Conception Junction, Abraham L. McElwain at Elmo and Miss Anna E. Freytag at Graham. There was no other applicant at Graham.

The fourth-class offices have become a perfect nightmare to members of congress. Many of them were willing to see fourth class offices placed under the civil service believing it would rid them of a lot of trouble and annoyance but instead of reducing their troubles, they have been multiplied. Under the instructions of the Postmaster General, members of congress can do very little and political recommendations have no weight with the Department in civil service matters. While congressmen are hedged about by these facts on the one hand, they are besieged on the other hand by applicants and friends of applicants who refuse to believe that they are tied and practically helpless in the matter. In the larger offices they can weigh the merits and claims of the various applicants and end the matter with a recommendation according to their best judgment and what they believe will give the most general satisfaction to the public, but, in these little offices, an examination is held mainly along educational lines and party or other considerations give the applicant no additional standing as may be seen from the following instructions issued by the Postmaster General on the subject.

"First Assistant: In selecting persons from the eligible registers furnished by the Civil Service Commission for appointment as fourth-class postmasters, it is my desire that the person with the highest rating be chosen, unless good and valid reasons are submitted to the department, showing that this would not be in the best interest of the service. If reasons are submitted sufficient to make the selection of the first eligible inadvisable, then is my desire that the person with the next highest rating be chosen, unless good and valid reasons are submitted to show the inadvisability of his appointment.

"In no case should the second or third eligible be chosen unless the appointment of one of the higher standing eligibles has been shown to be inadvisable from the standpoint of the greater efficiency in the postal service.

"In reaching conclusions as to the most desirable appointments an endeavor should be made to select persons whose business and temperamental equipment is likely to reflect credit on the postal service.

(Signed) A. S. Burleson,
Postmaster General."

The possibilities of Marion county in particular and Northeast Missouri in general as a dairy country have been emphasized by the Farm Bureau.

Judge Pines, who is one of the most active members of the bureau, says he is making money since he injected

GREAT GOOD DONE

IN MARION COUNTY BY A FARM BUREAU.

RESULTS OF FIRST YEAR

Many Things Accomplished and Now Strongly in Favor of Such a Bureau in that County.

The following is what H. J. Blanton wrote the St. Louis Republic in regard to the Farm Bureau work in Marion county.

An object lesson in the possibilities of Marion county soil and the profits that would come to Marion county farmers from crops which produce a maximum of value with a minimum of effort, was furnished by Houck Miller on the streets of Hannibal, yesterday. He had just finished harvesting twenty tons of alfalfa hay from fifteen acres of land and brought a bundle of the hay to the city for expert examination.

Three other crops, totaling about eighty tons of the richest forage known to the agricultural world will be grown on the same field this season. At $15 a ton, a low estimate at present, this fifteen-acre plot will yield nearly $1,200 worth of hay.

If Miller had grown timothy, the forage crop on most North Missouri farms on that piece of ground, he would have cut only one crop in the season, and the average, under ordinary conditions, would have been not more than one ton to the acre, with less feeding value and less market value than a ton of alfalfa.

The Marion county Farm Bureau is using object lessons like this to fine advantage.

The commercial clubs of Hannibal and Palmyra have been co-operating with the bureau in this work.

Farm bureau organization has been an established fact in Marion county for more than a year. Farmers, merchants, bankers and professional men unite in the opinion that it has come to stay and that the money spent in its maintenance eventually will yield larger returns than any investment in which Marion county

brings and method into the business where he struggled to make ends meet before. He has twenty-eight dairy cows whose butter fat tests 5 per cent
In order to determine whether or not a cow is eligible to a place in the herd he weighs and keeps a daily record of her feed and of her milk every day for a certain period of time. If she is eating as much as the other cows but yielding a minimum milk the figures prove nature intended her for the butcher's block instead of for the dairy herd, and she must give way to one that will measure up to the standard.
As evidence that a superior article will always command a superior price and that better methods of dairying bring their own reward, Judge Pines points to the fact that milk from his dairy sells regularly at 40 cents a gallon.

The Farm Bureau is seeking to expand this industry. It insists that Northeast Missouri's natural bluegrass pastures, its short winters, its low-priced lands and its proximity to city markets gives it every advantage over Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, where cows must be housed and fed all the winter and where lands are much higher in price.

The bureau has an active ally in the County Highway Engineer, E. W. Sheets, and in the County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Frankie Connell. Sheets demonstrates the possibilities of organized, intelligent effort among farmers by co-operating with them in building better roads, while Miss Connell makes matters easier for the adviser by making agriculture a topic of vital interest in every rural school.

If it is too thin make it grow. If it is harsh and brittle soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp with Parisian sage—all dandruff disappears, falling hair and itching head cease, your hair is doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage, sold by T. J. Parle and at all drug counters, is just what you need—a large bottle costs but 50 cents. It surely makes the hair lustrous and seem twice as abundant. You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage.

Tuxedo—A Hit with the Hit-Makers

HUNDREDS of the snappiest ball players in the country—the clean-cut athletes who provide Americans with their greatest outdoor relaxation—enthusiastically endorse Tuxedo. This is the kind of endorsement that carries a convincing punch.

These men know that Tuxedo is a mild, pure tobacco, which can be smoked all day with pleasure. Tuxedo cannot bite the tongue; it burns freely and smoothly, giving a cool, sweet smoke.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

From the scoreboard man to the magnate in the private box, everybody on the grounds is "catching on to" the supreme merit of Tuxedo.

Tuxedo is made from the finest, mildest leaves of high-grade Burley tobacco, so treated under the famous original "Tuxedo Process" that it burns slow and cool, with a delightful flavor and aroma.

The "Tuxedo Process" makes it impossible for this perfect tobacco to bite or sting the most delicate throat or tongue.

Tuxedo has many imitators—in outward appearance. It has no equal in the pipe or cigarette.

P.O. APPOINTMENTS

ANNA FREYTAG, GRAHAM, GOLDA BIRD, QUITMAN

A. L. M'ELWAIN AT ELMO

Miss Joanna Lyons at Conception and Henry Berg at the Junction—About Fourth Class Offices.

(By W. C. Van Cleve)

Washington, D. C., June 7, 1914.—The close of another week finds three more important bills removed from the House calendar and added to the Senate's burden of unfinished business. The three anti-trust bills designed to correct many of the evils permitted by the present laws, were passed by the House in substantially the same form as reported from the committees. Very little opposition developed and on the final votes, most of the republicans fell in line and voted with the democrats. The following are the principal features embodied in the bills:

Price discrimination prohibited.

Railroad pools barred.

"Discounts" or "rebates" forbidden.

Interlocking directorates illegal.

Guilt made personal in all cases.

Labor unions declared legal.

Interstate Commerce Commission to supervise bond issues.

A commission to regulate corporations created.

That the senate will act promptly in considering these bills is assured. It is by no means certain that the senate will pass the house bills as they have already reported out a trade commission bill of their own, but such as finally become permanent law will embody substantially the same features as are now in the house bills passed.

The senate will reach a vote on the bill to repeal the portion of the Panama Canal tolls act providing for free tolls to American vessels engaged in the coast wise trade very soon. An amendment is said to have been finally agreed upon which will make the passage of the bill a certainty and will be satisfactory to both the proponents and the opponents of the original bill.

The Mexican mediation congress has been having a sore time of it trying to unravel the tangled skein and it has looked at times like its efforts would be fruitless. They have been so far unable to get the rebel leader, Carranza, into the conference on the same terms that Huerta came in on and with out him no settlement of the internal affairs of Mexico can be made with any hope of permanency unless the armed forces of the United States get behind it. This would likely involve trouble between the United States and the constitutionalists which is not desired.

New complications continue to arise but there appears to be ground for the hope now that Carranza will come in and that success will finally crown their efforts. It was a tremendous undertaking to begin with and will be a great diplomatic victory if it succeeds.

The department has announced its intention to make the following post office appointments under the civil service examinations held some time ago. Miss Goldie Bird at Quitman, Miss Joanna Lyons at Conception, Henry Berg at Conception Junction, Abraham L. McElwain at Elmo and Miss Anna E. Freytag at Graham. There was no other applicant at Graham.

The fourth-class offices have become a perfect nightmare to members of congress. Many of them were willing to see fourth class offices placed under the civil service believing it would rid them of a lot of trouble and annoyance but instead of reducing their troubles, they have been multiplied. Under the instructions of the Postmaster General, members of congress can do very little and political recommendations have no weight with the Department in civil service matters. While congressmen are hedged about by these facts on the one hand, they are besieged on the other hand by applicants and friends of applicants who refuse to believe that they are tied and practically helpless in the matter. In the larger offices they can weigh the merits and claims of the various applicants and end the matter with a recommendation according to their best judgment and what they believe will give the most general satisfaction to the public, but, in these little offices, an examination is held mainly along educational lines and party or other considerations give the applicant no additional standing as may be seen from the following instructions issued by the Postmaster General on the subject.

"First Assistant: In selecting persons from the eligible registers furnished by the Civil Service Commission for appointment as fourth-class postmasters, it is my desire that the person with the highest rating be chosen, unless good and valid reasons are submitted to the department, showing that this would not be in the best interest of the service. If reasons are submitted sufficient to make the selection of the first eligible inadvisable, then is my desire that the person with the next highest rating be chosen, unless good and valid reasons are submitted to show the inadvisability of his appointment.

"In no case should the second or third eligible be chosen unless the appointment of one of the higher standing eligibles has been shown to be inadvisable from the standpoint of the greater efficiency in the postal service.

"In reaching conclusions as to the most desirable appointments an endeavor should be made to select persons whose business and temperamental equipment is likely to reflect credit on the postal service.

(Signed) A. S. Burleson,

Postmaster General."

Gillmer will find farm organizations in about 65 per cent of the school districts of the county.

The Marion County Bureau was organized in April, 1913, with eight officers and seventy-five members.

The Commercial Club, after a preliminary campaign to build sentiment, went to Palmyra to lay the matter before the county court. The proposition was vigorously opposed by a number of farmers who thought the court could spend its money to better advantage on roads and bridges.

The judges had all been raised on the farm, however, and were quick to see the possibilities of the thing were sufficient to warrant them in giving it a trial.

George V. Saffarans was one of the number who heaped ridicule upon the bureau when it was in process of organization. Today he is one of its most enthusiastic friends. It was not what the adviser proposed to do, but what he actually brought to pass, that made a convert of Saffarans.

When the drouth was at its height and the corn was threatened with utter destruction last summer, Laude preached the doctrine of constant, but shallow, cultivation of the conservation of such moisture as yet remained in the earth.

The possibilities of Marion county in particular and Northeast Missouri in general as a dairy country have been emphasized by the Farm Bureau.

GREAT GOOD DONE

IN MARION COUNTY BY A FARM BUREAU.

RESULTS OF FIRST YEAR

Many Things Accomplished and New Strongly in Favor of Such a Bureau in that County.

The following is what H. J. Blanton wrote the St. Louis Republic in regard to the Farm Bureau work in Marion county.

An object lesson in the possibilities of Marion county soil and the profits that would come to Marion county farmers from crops which produce a maximum of value with a minimum of effort, was furnished by Houck Miller on the streets of Hannibal, yesterday. He had just finished harvesting twenty tons of alfalfa hay from fifteen acres of land and brought a bundle of the hay to the city for expert examination.

Three other crops, totaling about eighty tons of the richest forage known to the agricultural world will be grown on the same field this season. At $1.20 a ton, a low estimate at present, this fifteen-acre plot will yield nearly $1200 worth of hay.

If Miller had grown timothy, the forage crop on most North Missouri farms on that piece of ground, he would have cut only one crop in the season, and the average, under ordinary conditions, would have been not more than one ton to the acre, with less feeding value and less market value than a ton of alfalfa.

The Marion county Farm Bureau is using object lessons like this to fine advantage.

The commercial clubs of Hannibal and Palmyra have been co-operating with the bureau in this work.

Farm bureau organization has been an established fact in Marion county for more than a year. Farmers, merchants, bankers and professional men unite in the opinion that it has come to stay and that the money spent in its maintenance eventually will yield larger returns than any investment in which Marion county ever has been interested.

A temporary vacancy in the office of adviser has been caused by the removal of H. H. Laude to another field.

W. C. Gillmer, who is to succeed Laude, will be unable to go upon the field until about September 1. He is a graduate of the State Agricultural College at Ames, Ia., and is a man of long experience as an agricultural expert. His salary will be $3,000 a year. One-half will be paid out of the county treasury and the rest, as usual, will be shared equally by the state and national treasuries.

Gillmer will find farm organizations in about 65 per cent of the school districts of the county.

brains and method into the business where he struggled to make ends meet before. He has twenty-eight dairy cows whose butter fat tests 5 per cent. In order to determine whether or not a cow is eligible to a place in the herd he weighs and keeps a daily record of her feed and of her milk every day for a certain period of time. If she is eating as much as the other cows but yielding a minimum milk the figures prove nature intended her for the butcher's block instead of for the dairy herd, and she must give way to one that will measure up to the standard. As evidence that a superior article will always command a superior price and that better methods of dairying bring their own reward, Judge Pines points to the fact that milk from his dairy sells regularly at 40 cents a gallon.

The Farm Bureau is seeking to expand this industry. It insists that Northeast Missouri's natural bluegrass pastures, its short winters, its low-priced lands and its proximity to city markets gives it every advantage over Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, where cows must be housed and fed all the winter and where lands are much higher in price.

The bureau has an active ally in the County Highway Engineer, E. W. Sheets, and in the County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Franklin Connell. Sheets demonstrates the possibilities of organized, intelligent effort among farmers by co-operating with them in building better roads, while Miss Connell makes matters easier for the adviser by making agriculture a topic of vital interest in every rural school.

Mrs. Carrie McDavitt, of Quincy, Ill., arrived in Maryville Monday to spend several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Mary Bennett and her niece, Mrs. Elizabeth French.

HAVE PRETTY HAIR

Thick, Soft, Fluffy and no Dandruff—Use Parisian Sage.

If your hair is losing its natural color, coming out and splitting, or lacks that enviable softness, gloss and beauty, do not despair—pretty hair is largely a matter of care. If it is too thin make it grow. If it is harsh and brittle soften it up—lubricate it. If you have dandruff it is because the scalp is too dry and flakes off. Freshen up the scalp with Parisian sage—all dandruff disappears, falling hair and itching head cease, your hair is doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage, sold by T. J. Parle and at all drug counters, is just what you need—a large bottle costs but 50 cents. It surely makes the hair lustrous and seem twice as abundant. You cannot be disappointed in Parisian Sage.

"I'd advise every ballplayer to smoke Tuxedo. I do, always. I know of no other tobacco that gives the satisfaction that Tuxedo does."

Fred Clarke

Tuxedo—A Hit with the Hit-Makers

HUNDREDS of the snappiest ball players in the country—the clean-cut athletes who provide Americans with their greatest outdoor relaxation—enthusiastically endorse Tuxedo. This is the kind of endorsement that carries a convincing punch.

These men know that Tuxedo is a mild, pure tobacco, which can be smoked all day with pleasure. Tuxedo cannot bite the tongue; it burns freely and smoothly, giving a cool, sweet smoke.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

From the scoreboard man to the magnate in the private box, everybody on the grounds is "catching on to" the supreme merit of Tuxedo.

Tuxedo is made from the finest, mildest leaves of high-grade Burley tobacco, so treated under the famous original "Tuxedo Process" that it burns slow and cool, with a delightful flavor and aroma.

The "Tuxedo Process" makes it impossible for this perfect tobacco to bite or sting the most delicate throat or tongue.

Tuxedo has many imitators—in outward appearance. It has no equal in the pipe or cigarette.
